MESSAGE

I am extremely delighted to declare that Indira Gandhi Delhi Technical University for Women (IGDTUW) is organizing its 7th Convocation Ceremony on November 22, 2024. This day is going to be a grand celebration of success stories of several talented and extremely capable girls from all across the country.

My heartfelt congratulations to the graduating daughters of IGDTUW, their parents, and the entire IGDTUW family on this momentous occasion. I especially congratulate those students who will be receiving awards and medals as a reward for their dedication, hard work, and academic excellence.

IGDTUW, in very few years, has evolved into a national university of repute with a mission to foster an environment of excellence in technical and professional education. We strive to ensure the active participation of women in the fields of Engineering, Sciences, Management and Architecture and facilitate the nurturing of empowered women professionals.

As we celebrate today, let us remember the words of the ancient Sanskrit shloka:

“नास्ति विद्यासमो बन्धुर्नास्ति विद्यासमः सुहृत् ।

“नास्ति विद्यासमं वित्तं नास्ति विद्यासमं सुखम्॥” ॥

“There is no kin equivalent to knowledge; there is no friend equivalent to knowledge, there is no wealth equivalent to knowledge, there is no happiness equivalent to knowledge.”

For all humans especially women in contemporary times the above shloka embodies the essence of true power which is possible only through education. Apart from knowledge it is important to imbibe honesty and integrity alongside professional skills. True success in professional life comes from integrating humanism with expertise. I firmly believe that the women graduates of this university are not only well-versed in the necessary technical skills but also exhibit honesty, integrity, and a sense of responsibility in their professional endeavors.

Once again, I confer my blessings and wish all of you a successful and bright future. I also congratulate the entire team at IGDTUW for their dedicated efforts in nurturing skilled professionals.

Ranjana Jha.
